

MEMO TO MR. DULLES

SUBJECT: A Few Random Thoughts for Your Speech

First, a gimmick to fit your library audience--

Though fact is ~~xxxxxxx~~ sometimes said to be stranger than fiction, in the field of ~~intellxxxintelligxxx~~ intelligence it's apt to be a bit more drab. In the spy thriller it's the ~~adventurxxx~~ adventure-ress who gets her man in the boudoir. In real life she's a researcher chasing down facts in a book. ~~Hollywxxxspiesxxxbyothexxxxx~~ ~~InzHollywxxxspyxherosinxzrazziztinxgishad~~ Hollywood can ~~pickxxxx~~ pick its spies by the amplitude of their bosoms; in CIA we're more ~~intxxxstxxx~~ interested in the amplitude of their minds. For ours is a business where brains count for more than allure. It is a business in which a knowledge of steamboat traffic on the Don is worth infinitely more than décolletage.

~~Thexxxxx~~

~~zxxxkharxwordxzxhzresearcherxhasxdisplacedxthexfictional~~

~~MatazHarixx~~

In real life the Mata Hari of the gaslight age has become a researcher with a B. A. degree. Musk has surrendered to the library shelf and romance in intelligence most likely means a three room apartment and husband in Georgetown.

The case for the researcher was best ~~put by an intelligence officer~~ put by an intelligence officer recently returned [REDACTED] ~~xxxx~~ STATINTL ~~xxx~~ "I'd swap half a ~~doz~~ dozen Mata Hari's any day," he said, "for one good librarian. The librarian's much more sure of getting her ~~man~~ man--and the TOP SECRET papers."

The general's statement made the papers and those ~~xx~~ papers ~~found their way to the library~~ eventually found their way to CIA. The ~~clipping~~ item was clipped, photostated, then enlarged and hung upon the wall. Long maligned as "drab and dusty," ~~for the sake of~~ ~~the adjectives applied to the library~~, our librarians cherish the clipping as proof that woman for woman they can match the Mata ~~Hari's~~ Hari's and ~~outdo them six to~~ one.

A few suggested ~~themenzznnzzzznnnnnnnnnn~~ themes, tangents, and treatments. --

National interests of the U. S. are directly affected by ~~xxxx~~ trends and events everywhere in the world. Problem is therefore ~~xxxxxxx~~ global. But because ~~xxx~~ USSR is the ~~rallyingpointzofoppositionzzxxxx~~ ~~centerzofoppositionxxxx~~ rallying point and center of opposition to U. S. policy, USSR and its orbit of domination becomes the number one target.

~~Therexxxx~~

And because there is almost no knowledge of the USSR which may not be of some value to U. S. policy-makers, our intelligence ~~missiexxxx~~ ~~becomessxandxencyclopediex~~ task becomes an encyclopedic undertaking.

~~Thiszinformationzcanzbedividedxintozthrexzcategoriesxx~~

This information is collected and ~~siftexxx~~ sifted in an effort to find ~~thexxxxxxx~~ answers to ~~threxprincipalexprincipalexpuzzlex~~ ~~xxx~~ three basic questions:

1. What are the capabilities of the Soviet?
2. What are ~~thexSovietzintentionzxx~~ its intentions?
- 3.